Experience: A retired educator of 33 years, Mr. Taylor has served as a classroom teacher, middle school assistant principal, high school assistant principal, middle school principal, and staff assistant in the Jordan District Central Office. He is an associate with the Center for the Improvement of Teacher Education and Schooling (CITES), and has served on numerous Jordan and Canyons District committees. He is a member of the Board of Trustees for the Utah High School Activities Association, and has served as a youth leader and camp director for the United States Forest Service.

Personal: My wife, Patricia, who is a retired teacher, and I have two children and six grandchildren. I was elected to the Jordan Board of Education in 2005, and currently serve as Vice President of the Canyons Board of Education. I deeply believe in the importance of parent involvement and in the need to prepare every student in Canyons District for college and career readiness.
